NINTH ANNUAL COWBOY MEET HELD THURSDAY

SEVERAL HUNDRED PRESENT AT ANNUAL BARBECUE

Old West Is Relieved in Memory as Cowpunchers Gather for Big Round-up

Campfires of old burned a-new in the memory of the old time cowboys who gathered at Wragge's park north of town for the ninth annual reunion Thursday. All local arrangements were in charge of R. E. Baird, who is vice-president of the T-Anchor association.

Small groups of cowpunchers of the old days began to arrive Wednesday afternoon and some 50 outfits had pitched camp on the banks of the creek by nightfall.

During the night John Snider, barbecue king of the Panhandle, aided by George Cloyd of Hereford, slowly browned eight beaves for the feast on Thursday. Thursday morning the crowd began to arrive in droves until the peak was reached at noon, when the crowd of several hundred men, women and children were pushed through a cattle chute, past the bull pen, and furnished with delicious barbecued meat, buns, pickles, son-of-a-gun, beans, onions and other chuck.

It was estimated that while the 1930 attendance hardly reached the one in 1929, there were more "old-timers" present Thursday than ever attended before and that the 1929 attendance mark was caused by the fact that more "mavericks" or members of the young generation were present at that time.

John Arnot, Amarillo, president, R. E. Baird, Canyon, vice president, and Miss Laura V. Hamner, Amarillo, secretary, were all re-elected for another term Thursday.

Judge L. Gough, past president, was voted a life membership, on motion of President Arnot. Judge Gough served two terms as the second president of the association, and Mr. Arnot is entering his fifth term in the same office. Miss Hamner has been secretary since the organization began, nine years ago. Vas Stickley of Canadian, first president, died some time ago.

R. E. Baird, who was re-elected vice-president has held that office for several years. He came to the T-Anchor to work as a cowboy in March 1883 and has lived in the county ever since that time. From the point of residence Mr. Baird is the oldest resident in Randall county at the present time.

In a large measure he is responsible for the grand success of the annual round-up of the cowboys. For several years he has had charge of the local arrangements (Continued on last page)

Landers-Davis Team Winners Amarillo Meet

LeRoy Landers added more laurels to his already large collection of Tennis trophies at the Tri-State Open Tennis tournament held last week-end in Amarillo, when he and his partner, O. K. Davis of Clovis, N. M., swept aside competition and won the men's doubles championship of the meet.

Landers, who has proved himself to be one of the outstanding tennis players ever produced by West Texas under the guidance of W. E. Lockhart, and Davis, who holds the Colorado State championship, were playing together for the first time.

In the semi-finals the championship team downed Dan Steakley of Austin and Joe Bill Bralley also of Austin, who was men's singles champion of the meet, by scores of 6-4 and 6-1. In the final game Landers and Davis were able to defeat Harold Moore and Leo Brady both of Abilene, by scores of 6-4, 7-5 and 6-4.

Landers, who first announced himself as an entry for the singles division of the tournament did not play. Owing to duties here in connection with the District Court being in session, Friday, he was unable to play in the singles contest which began Friday morning.

He has it to his credit of not having lost a match in any tournament in which he has played this year. Although he did not have an opportunity to play Bralley, champion of the meet, he is of the opinion that he could have defeated him. Landers states that Bralley was the weaker player of the Bralley-Steakley doubles team.

Local fans who saw Landers in action state that he was in good form although he has played little tennis since he won the T. I. A. A. championship in early spring.

S. B. McClure left Saturday for a business trip to Austin.

Moisture Brings Relief to Feed Crops in County

Rains bringing a total of 1.20 inches of moisture and bringing relief from drouth and heat fell here Friday and Saturday nights. The moisture was received with welcome by ranchmen and farmers. Although the rain was too late to be of material benefit to the feed crops in some sections of the county, it is the general opinion that the rains of Friday and Saturday will be of much benefit in a general way.

Farmers over the county have expressed opinions that the rains will save a great amount of late row crops that would have been too far gone in another 10 days of drouth. Earlier row crops that have passed the point where they will make grain will, in some instances, will take on new growth and make roughage for winter feeding.

Several cattlemen have stated that with additional moisture within the next few days, the ranges will be in good condition when frost arrives, insuring good grass for the cattle.

Felix Neff, local grain dealer had this statement to make, "The rain will be of great help to feed stuffs, but at that I do not believe any feed will be shipped out of this county. Those who have a surplus of row crop feed will find a market for it here in the county."

W. H. Upchurch county agent, in commenting on the rain said, "It is of tremendous aid to feed stuffs, especially late feed. Grass is aided to a great extent and if we have another inch of rain within a few days there should be good grass on the ranges this fall."

W. W. Kuehn was in the city Monday. He states that not a great amount of feed or grain will be made in his section of the county. Many farmers are planning to let the volunteer wheat crop, but Mr. Kuehn believes that it will be of great benefit to the farmers to kill out the volunteer before planting the winter wheat crop.

Paving Extended on 3rd Ave. to College

The paving program will be extended to include Third Avenue to the highway and the College, according to the decision of the city commission in session last night. The contract as originally entered into between the city and C. N. Harrison included the extension of Third Avenue, but the city was given authority to cancel this part of the contract if seen fit.

The property owners on this avenue of the two large blocks of vacant land were anxious that the paving be completed as it would help very much in the development of this property. The north side is the old stock pens site, which has been acquired by Amarillo parties, and the south side is owned by Missouri citizens.

With the completion of Third Avenue, Canyon will have four avenues completely paved through the city, Third, Fourth, Fifth and Seventh. Sixth is paved excepting two blocks on the west end and three blocks in the middle.

Mayor R. A. Bellah stated this morning that the city commission believed that now was the logical time to complete Third Avenue, before the land was sold to individuals who might have homesteaded rights, and therefore cause gaps to be left, as is the case in many parts of town. And the Mayor added: "We have the money."

Canyon holds the record of the entire Southwest in the amount of paved streets, according to population, and the addition of the new paving program puts the city far in the lead.

Central Teachers Meet Buffaloes in First Night Game

With the addition of the new lighting equipment at Buffalo Stadium comes the addition of another football game to the Buffalo schedule for the coming season.

Several thousands of fans from all sections of the Panhandle are expected to gather here on the night of September 26 to see the season's opener with the Central Teachers College of Edmonds, Oklahoma, who have agreed to come to Canyon for an additional game on the Buffalo schedule. Besides the novelty of seeing the two teams perform under the lights, Panhandle football fans will have the opportunity of seeing the grid classic of the season.

Central is coached by Charles W. Wantland, a graduate of Oklahoma University, he having played at Oklahoma just prior to the time that Coaches Reeds and Burton were playing under Oklahoma colors. Wantland has coached at Central seventeen years and has never had a weak team.

The Central team meets some of the strongest in the Southwest. Last season Centenary was able to nose out the Oklahomaans by the small margin of 9-6, after the Sooners had led in scoring throughout threequarters of the game.

Central is recognized as the leading team of the Oklahoma conference, having won its championship in football twelve times during the last seventeen years. The last two times they have met Oklahoma University they defeated the University team once and tied them once.

"One year with another the Central team will rate equal to any Southwestern conference team," Coach Burton stated in way of comment on the extra game on the Buff schedule.

With the first game this season scheduled against Happy here on Friday, September 12th, Brady states that it means much work to have the team in readiness for the first game. He has sent out a call to all members of the 1929 team who will be back in school this year and to all prospects to workout with the squad as much as it is possible before school begins September 8.

The second game of the season comes on Friday September 19th, with Borger on the local gridiron.

Coach Brady comes to Canyon from Anadarko, Oklahoma, with an excellent record of achievement both as a player and coach. During his first two years in college he attended the University of Oklahoma, where he was a letterman on the freshman football team and a letterman on the varsity cross-country team when a sophomore. Attending the Southwestern Teachers college of Oklahoma, where he received his degree three years ago, Brady lettered in football, track and baseball. He played end on the championship team of Southwestern.

During the past three years he has been coach of the Anadarko, Oklahoma High School team. While coach there he has won one conference championship in football, one conference championship in basketball, two county championships in track and one county championship in baseball. His teams were members of the Southern Conference of Oklahoma. Besides the championships won his team have always finished near the top each year.

Following workouts on Monday and Tuesday, with about 25 boys coming out, Coach Brady stated that he was pleased with the prospects of a good backfield, but that his line was weak.

Lack in weight he declared, is the only outstanding obstacle of that line that he will have to overcome. Most of those coming out are light and inexperienced. By hard work and close observance of training rules he hopes to have the team in top shape for the first game with Happy.

Dairymen to Hear Prominent Speakers

An invitation has been extended D. N. Sheparson and A. L. Darnell, both of A & M College and L. T. Simons, field secretary of the American Jersey Cattle club, to address the members of the Randall County Dairymen's Association on the night of September 8.

These three men prominent in dairy circles are to judge the entries of the Amarillo News-Globe Master Dairy Farmer contest. Although no definite announcement has been made it is expected that they will be here on that date.

G. G. Foster left Friday on a business trip to San Antonio.

Central Teachers Meet Buffaloes in First Night Game

With the addition of the new lighting equipment at Buffalo Stadium comes the addition of another football game to the Buffalo schedule for the coming season.

Several thousands of fans from all sections of the Panhandle are expected to gather here on the night of September 26 to see the season's opener with the Central Teachers College of Edmonds, Oklahoma, who have agreed to come to Canyon for an additional game on the Buffalo schedule. Besides the novelty of seeing the two teams perform under the lights, Panhandle football fans will have the opportunity of seeing the grid classic of the season.

Central is coached by Charles W. Wantland, a graduate of Oklahoma University, he having played at Oklahoma just prior to the time that Coaches Reeds and Burton were playing under Oklahoma colors. Wantland has coached at Central seventeen years and has never had a weak team.

The Central team meets some of the strongest in the Southwest. Last season Centenary was able to nose out the Oklahomans by the small margin of 9-6, after the Sooners had led in scoring throughout threequarters of the game.

Central is recognized as the leading team of the Oklahoma conference, having won its championship in football twelve times during the last seventeen years. The last two times they have met Oklahoma University they defeated the University team once and tied them once.

"One year with another the Central team will rate equal to any Southwestern conference team," Coach Burton stated in way of comment on the extra game on the Buff schedule.

After going over the affairs of the local club, Mr. Nichols stated that he was well pleased with the progress of Rotary in Canyon. He made valuable suggestions as to the operation of the Rotary club in the city, which will prove beneficial to the future welfare of the club.

President Doug Shirley presided for the first time since election to the office, as he has been away attending the University of Michigan during the summer.

Visitors present Tuesday were: B. F. Pronabarger, Jr., of Denton; B. E. Masters and J. B. Linn of Amarillo.

Ten Year Old Seed Products Good Crop

G. C. Bram has some very fine kaffir, which is raised from seed ten years old.

Mr. Bram states that practically every grain of the kaffir sprouted and that the crop is as good as any in the county. Mr. Bram is one of the oldest farmers in Randall county, settling on his land south of Canyon in the 80's.

PERMITS PASS BEYOND MARK OF $100,000 HERE

THREE PERMITS PUSH TOTAL UP BY $11,500

Mark of Last Year Is Surpassed by Over $17,000; Present Total Is $110,850

Three permits amounting to $11,500 issued this week at the office of City Secretary Harvey Cash, sent the total so far this year well beyond the $100,000 mark and passing the mark of last year by more than $17,000.

During the past two months the building permits issued by the city secretary have steadily increased and present indications are that the total at the close of the year may reach beyond $150,000. Permits amounting to $93,415 were issued in 1929. The total for this year is $110,850.

J. I. Ballangee was issued a permit for the erection of a stucco residence in the 2600 block on Fifth Avenue. The house is to cost $1,500. It is at the same location of the old Younger residence.

A permit amounting to $5,000 was issued to Miss Agnes Charlton for the erection of a stucco residence at 507 25th Street. George Small is the contractor.

S. B. Louder will erect a brick veneer residence at 1810 Second Avenue at a cost of $5,000. P. V. Winstead is the contractor.

T-P Proposes a Long Extension into Panhandle

An announcement that came as a complete surprise to the entire Panhandle-Plains, was made by the Texas and Pacific railway when officials of the company made public their plans to build a 333 mile extension from Big Spring to Amarillo.

A charter was granted the Texas, Pacific and Northern railway at Austin, Monday. Simultaneous with the granting of the charter an application was made to the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington for a permit to construct the line.

Beginning at Big Spring in Howard county the line proposed will run through Lamesa in Dawson county, Brownfield in Terry county, Levelland in Hockley county, Littlefield in Lamb county, Dimmitt in Castro county and to Amarillo. From Dimmitt a branch line is proposed to run to Vega passing through Hereford. From a point in Terry county another branch is proposed to run to Lubbock.

It is presumed that the line will propose to use the Santa Fe track from Canyon to Amarillo as the proposed routing would show a parallel line from Canyon to Amarillo.

No fight is to be made, by Canyon organizations, for the road at the present time it is announced even though the connection with Dimmitt would be very desirable. It is believed that the Santa Fe and the Fort Worth and Denver roads will protest the application for the new line, when it comes before the commission. There is apparently no demand at present for such a road and as it offers no better service to the area affected than that already given by other lines.

Eagles' Coach

COACH EDGAR BRADY

New Coach Is Training Eagles for First Game

Edgar Brady, new coach of Canyon High School Eagles called his first workout of the current season Monday afternoon. Coach Brady arrived in Canyon late last Thursday afternoon and immediately announced that he would begin his round-up of football players and prospects for the 1930 Eagle team.

With the first game this season scheduled against Happy here on Friday, September 12th, Brady states that it means much work to have the team in readiness for the first game. He has sent out a call to all members of the 1929 team who will be back in school this year and to all prospects to workout with the squad as much as it is possible before school begins September 8.

The second game of the season comes on Friday September 19th, with Borger on the local gridiron.

Coach Brady comes to Canyon from Anadarko, Oklahoma, with an excellent record of achievement both as a player and coach. During his first two years in college he attended the University of Oklahoma, where he was a letterman on the freshman football team and a letterman on the varsity cross-country team when a sophomore.

Attending the Southwestern Teachers college of Oklahoma, where he received his degree three years ago, Brady lettered in football, track and baseball. He played end on the championship team of Southwestern.

During the past three years he has been coach of the Anadarko, Oklahoma High School team. While coach there he has won one conference championship in football, one conference championship in basketball, two county championships in track and one county championship in baseball. His teams were members of the Southern Conference of Oklahoma. Besides the championships won his team have always finished near the top each year.

Following workouts on Monday and Tuesday, with about 25 boys coming out, Coach Brady stated that he was pleased with the prospects of a good backfield, but that his line was weak.

Lack in weight he declared, is the only outstanding obstacle of that line that he will have to overcome. Most of those coming out are light and inexperienced. By hard work and close observance of training rules he hopes to have the team in top shape for the first game with Happy.

Supt. Carruth Given Honors for College Work

Irby Carruth, superintendent of the Canyon Public Schools, who is attending the University of Chicago this summer, has been elected to Phi Delta Kappa, a national honorary fraternity composed of men who are making education their profession.

Election to membership is limited to advanced students in education, who have demonstrated their ability to do creditable work. Mr. Carruth has spent several summers attending the University of Chicago where he is working on his Master's Degree, which he expects to receive next year. He and Mrs. Carruth plan to reach Canyon by September 1, arriving in time to take up his duties as head of the local school system.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan F. Sanders and daughter left Thursday for Wheeler to visit at the home of his parents.

POLITICS ARE OVER

The primary election Saturday ended politics in Texas for the year. The two campaigns were among the bitterest Texas has ever had, and brought out the largest vote that the state has ever witnessed.

The nomination of Ross Sterling will end hostilities. A feeble attempt may be made on the part of a small minority to defeat Mr. Sterling in the general election this fall, but such action will prove childish. Jim Ferguson may lead in an appeal to the voters to herd into the Republican camp, but the decisive defeat of Saturday will leave him little consolation and little to expect at the hands of the voters.

The only regret of the campaign was that Ferguson was not defeated by a larger majority. There were thousands of voters herded into the Ferguson camp, not because they liked Ferguson, but because they were afraid of Ross Sterling. A big business man, and a rich successful leader, always brings condemnation down upon his own head in the political realm. That is the only grounds upon which Sterling could be criticised, and fortunately for the state, it did not play as great a part as it was expected to play. Ferguson received enough votes to make it profitable for him to remain in the political field. So long as Jim Ferguson can muster the strength as was given Mrs. Ferguson last Saturday, you may expect him to be in the campaign.

The nomination of Edgar Witt to the office of Lieutenant Governor was very fortunate. He is sold to the idea of completing the business of the legislature in one session, rather than scattering the work over nine months. With the cooperation of Governor Sterling and the Speaker of the House, the 42nd legislature should wind up its business in a very short time.

The defeat of Attorney General Bobbitt was very largely the work of Dan Moody. Had he not jumped on Cecil Storey in the first primary, the Storey following would very likely have come into the Bobbitt camp. Dan Moody can do more things politically wrong than almost any man in Texas—and hurt his friends more in his ill advised actions.

Now that the campaign is over, and the rains have fallen, let's put politics on the shelf for two years and go to work developing Texas. There are a lot of things which need the attention of all of the leading citizens of Texas.

An Expression of Thanks

To the many friends whose loyal support made my recent nomination possible, I wish to express my sincere thanks. I will try to prove worthy of your faith. For those who supported my opponent I can bear no ill feeling. I realize that the motives which prompted you to vote for him were the same that led my friends to vote for me. I will do my best to fill the office.

S. B. Orton

Rains this week put an altogether different appearance on the country, and given the people an altogether different feeling. Cattle-men say the rains are in time to make good fall pasture. Farmers say that much of the row crop has been saved, and will make a fair yield. Bankers say that the people have money, and are in position to buy. Merchants say that fall business should be good. This section of Texas is the only one which has remained consistently in the white "good business" section of the United States Chamber of Commerce map. The outlook is bright for Randall county this fall.

It looks like the fall of the stock market would have discouraged salesmen from attempting to sell stocks in new and venturesome companies. But such is not the case. A number of salesmen have visited Canyon during the past few weeks, explaining the details of golden opportunities which are knocking just once at your door. All of the propositions presented, perhaps one percent will prove good. But gambling in unknown and untried stocks seem to be a weakness of the American people. So long as people will buy, just so long will there be plenty of stock offered for sale. It is a safe proposition for everyone to handle their own money in their own way just so long as they can. Buying unknown stocks is very much like swapping jack knives sight unseen.

The Last Hope Left

Advertising isn't meant to be seasonal; advertising the year 'round will help business the year 'round. There may not be a direct rush, but it draws a steady trade, and makes transient customers permanent ones. Advertising will build a constant and steady trade that cannot be built by any other method. But it will not sell goods of an inferior quality and it will not improve business in a musty store where goods are displayed unattractively. It will not hold trade at a store where clerks are not polite and considerate. It will not hold customers where service is not reasonably prompt. Competition is keen, but the business man who keeps his eyes open to new ideas and puts those ideas into practice—which includes a steady and liberal use of printers ink—is bound to get his share of business. The home paper is the last surviving hope of the home merchant in a day when mail order catalogues and house-to-house salesmen are as thick as flies in this and every other community.

The president has done more than any other individual to end unemployment. Imagine what would happen if all the men he has placed on commissions were out of work.

Shallow Crown Hat Is Smart for Fall

IF YOU MUST HAVE A BRIM ON YOUR TURBAN, BE CAREFUL IT DOESN'T COVER THE EYEBROWS—AND IT SHOULD BE CUT TO FIT FUR COAT COLLAR

BY HARRIET

How far up is up and how far back is back? That must be decided before fall hats are bought. Without that knowledge it would be difficult to determine whether they harmonize with coats, frocks and suits.

The shallow crown hat, with a high forehead cut, is the important one. There may be a brim. But it must not hide the all-important eyebrows. The brimless toque and turbans are the ones to consider first, because they are so chic and up-to-date.

It is interesting to note that the nonchalant beret is growing a little more formal and developing into turbans and toques. Made of fine felt, velvet, chenille, ribbon, fur, fabric and a combination of materials, they are colorful, pert, interesting and feminine.

The hat with trimming is important this year. Little curls of feathers, fancy feather trims of all kinds, fur bows and ribbon ones, even flowers trim the new millinery, though the hat with flowers is usually the dressy one.

One of the most important considerations for fall hats is whether or not they are cut for fur coat collars. Many of them are. With collars so high and intricate, the hat, for comfort, must be shallow and fit the head neatly to avoid interference.

Hats do not match coats exactly this autumn. A shade or two lighter or darker is preferable if the coats have monotone coloring. More often than not the gross grain banding has a second tone to lighten it too. Showing at the top or at the bottom. Feather fancies may match either the hat or the banding.

A SMART little toque for early fall wear is black felt, with an unusual draping of the felt on one side, with a little black feather fancy tucked through the fold of the drape and curling down on the neck.

Quite a different type of fall hat

is the formal little turban of bittersweet velvet that tops an afternoon or dinner dress of bittersweet velvet.

This turban is worn well up and well back on the head, is extremely shallow and is draped in the modern manner towards the back, where the folds are caught with a brilliant clasp.

The frock that goes with this turban is a charming model of one-piece dress, made with unusual trimming in the shape of tucking in the velvet in diamond shapes.

There is this ornamentation at the waist, all around the full, short sleeves with their becoming drop shoulders, and forming a deep border at the top of the flounce that extends from the hips to even ankle length.

Among other new hats, one of navy blue felt is made with a diamond-shaped crown of beige broadtail fur, with a little flat bow of the fur across the back. Another is a brown felt turban, made in five parts, with all of them fastened together with matching chenille.

Times Change, Humans Don't

Every so often we find a news story in which a woman's revenge is given as the reason for a man's death. In a certain midwestern state, so the newest story of love and conflict goes, a girl's wish for revenge is now being blamed for the death of two men.

The natural re-action to true murder yarns is a reflection as to how much worse Eve's daughters are today than they used to be.

If we would reflect carefully we would realize that they aren't the least bit more responsible for death and tragedy than their predecessors. There was Helen of Troy, for instance. Her elopement with Paris, the son of King Priam, sent the whole of the Spartan navy to Troy to get her back. Before the war ended several other countries brought their boats to the shore and joined in the battle. Before Helen finally was recovered a good many thousands of men were killed.

Not only mythology but history as well, is filled with cases in which a woman's wiles upset nations and brought death to many.

The world is very much better today than it used to be. This is seen in the very action of the public conscience which condemns a woman today for the same deeds for which it lauded her in song and story when she committed them a thousand, or even one of two hundred years ago.

Shallow Crown Hat Is Smart for Fall

IF YOU MUST HAVE A BRIM ON YOUR TURBAN, BE CAREFUL IT DOESN'T COVER THE EYEBROWS—AND IT SHOULD BE CUT TO FIT FUR COAT COLLAR

BY HARRIET

HOW far up is up and how far back is back? That must be decided before fall hats are bought. Without that knowledge it would be difficult to determine whether they harmonize with coats, frocks and suits.

The shallow crown hat, with a high forehead cut, is the important one. There may be a brim. But it must not hide the all-important eyebrows. The brimless toque and turbans are the ones to consider first, because they are so chic and up-to-date.

It is interesting to note that the nonchalant beret is growing a little more formal and developing into turbans and toques. Made of fine felt, velvet, chenille, ribbon, fur, fabric and a combination of materials, they are colorful, pert, interesting and feminine.

The hat with trimming is important this year. Little curls of feathers, fancy feather trims of all kinds, fur bows and ribbon ones, even flowers trim the new millinery, though the hat with flowers is usually the dressy one.

One of the most important considerations for fall hats is whether or not they are cut for fur coat collars. Many of them are. With collars so high and intricate, the hat, for comfort, must be shallow and fit the head neatly to avoid interference.

Hats do not match coats exactly this autumn. A shade or two lighter or darker is preferable if the coats have monotone coloring. More often than not the grosgrain banding has a second tone to lighten it, too, showing at the top or at the bottom. Feather fancies may match either the hat or the banding.

A SMART little toque for early fall wear is black felt, with an unusual draping of the felt on one side, with a little black feather fancy stuck through the fold of the drape and curling down on the neck.

GOOD RESOLUTIONS FOR ANY DAY

I will study the language of gentlemen and refuse to use words that bite and tones that crash.

I will practice patience at home lest my temper break through unexpectedly and disgrace me.

I will remember that my neighbors have troubles enough without unloading mine on them.

I will excuse others' faults and failures as often and fully as I expect others to be lenient with mine.

I will be a friend under trying tests and wear everywhere a good-will face unchilled by aloftness.

I will love boys and girls so that age will not find me stiff and soured.

I will gladden my nature by smiling out loud on every occasion and by overlooking optimistically.

I will pray frequently, think good things, believe in men, and do a full day's work without fear or favor.—The Great Western.

Thieves Active in City During Past Week-end

Thieves were active in Canyon during the past week-end when they took one car and entered one house stealing a pair of trousers and taking only money from the pockets.

A Ford sedan belonging to Wilford Jones, of Lockney a student in college here, was stolen Friday night. Jones had his car parked in the driveway at his place of residence at 400 12th and during the night it was stolen.

Saturday night or early Sunday morning thieves entered the Oscar Gamble home by cutting the screen and lifting the latch on the back screen door. Mr. Gamble's trousers which contained his purse and keys to both his car and the Canyon Supply store were removed from the house and left hanging in a tree in the yard. Nothing was missed except the purse which contained a few valuable papers and approximately $15.00 in currency.

The purse was later found with only the money missing.

Large Crowd Sees Returns Tabulated

Until they were dispersed by the welcome rain about nine o'clock Saturday night, several hundred Randall county people gathered in front of the News office to receive the returns of the election as fast as they were tabulated.

Although a record vote was cast in the county the complete returns of Randall county were in the hands of the News force by 8:20 Saturday night. The first returns by wire from the Texas Election bureau were received about 7:45 and continued until near eleven o'clock when it was certain as to the outcome of all the state races.

Later bulletins were posted Sunday morning.

Shows Pilots Way to Go Home

It was a light task, of course, for this pretty miss to find a seat in this lamp, but her real purpose was to show the exact size of one of the big beacons on the new southern transcontinental air mail route from Los Angeles to New York, via Dallas and Atlanta, which will begin operating before the end of the year.

A Trifle Too Enduring By Bruce Catton

Possibly it's just the summer heat, which always makes things seem hard to bear, but it does seem to grow increasingly certain, every day, that life would flow along a little bit more smoothly and happily if all of these endurance-contest gentlemen would quietly and speedily remove themselves from circulation.

It wasn't so bad, at first. There was, originally, quite a thrill in seeing just how much punishment human bodies would stand. When two men can sit in an airplane continuously for three weeks or more, the feat is bound to have a certain amount of interest; and for a while, at least, there was a weird sort of fascination in watching people stay out of contact with the earth for a longer period of time than anybody had done since the world began.

But we're getting case-hardened now. Someone really should take all of these ambitious young people aside and explain to them that it isn't funny any more.

After all, it isn't the length of time you can do a thing without stopping that counts so much as it is the way you do it. The latest endurance flyers set a record of upwards of 600 hours in the air; yet, on the whole, their flight was not quite as significant as the 40-second affair contrived by Orville Wright over the sands of Kitty Hawk a quarter of a century ago. Quantity is still a trifle less important than quality.

Probably there is something to be said for the dogged quality of determination that stirs in the breasts of these endurance-record seekers. Yet determination, after all, isn't the highest virtue attainable. The beaten path that the world is supposed to tread through the wilderness to the door of the manufacturer of superior mousetraps is never made because of the mousetrap-maker's long-windedness.

The editor of the New Mexico State Tribune, of Albuquerque, recently hit upon an idea that seems to have possibilities in this connection. The boys of his city were indulging in an orgy of tree-sitting—surely one of the most harmless but, at the same time, dizzy, of all competitions possible—and this editor decided it had gone far enough. So, through his paper, he offered prizes consisting of movie tickets—not to the successful sitters, but to such lads as would recover their senses, come down out of their trees and return to a normal life on the ground. It worked, and Albuquerque has not been bothered with tree-sitters since.

Something like that might be worked out for these adult endurance folk. When a couple of young men prepare to take an airplane aloft for a month or so, we might tell them: "Here—we know you have a good plane and we know you're good pilots. Let's take it all for granted. Here are two seats for the Follies. Stay down, enjoy yourselves, and give us all a rest."

It might work. Who knows? If there's no other way out it ought at least to be worth a trial.

COLOR IN THE NEWS

There's a nerve-tingling thrill in the news that has been filtering out of northern India recently, like that in one of Kipling's master romances of adventure.

For the wild Pathan hillmen of the Afghan frontier country, those historic free-booters who have plied their trade around Khyber Pass for centuries, are on the warpath again. The current unrest in India and the prospects of loot have encouraged them to attack the city of Peshawar, the last British outpost in northwestern India. Several times they have been beaten off by British troops and several times they have returned. Recently, British airplanes have followed them into their native hills and bombed them from the skies.

The semi-savage Pathans are undoubtedly the most ferocious and blood-thirsty fighters on the globe. They battle with a fanatical fury, bred of their Moslem belief that the warrior who dies by the sword is assured of a place in Allah's voluptuous paradise. Their life and mode of living has been little changed since the legions of Alexander the Great poured through the Khyber into India 2500 years ago. Civilization has not touched these wild children of the hills except to provide them with guns instead of spears or swords, as more efficient of committing murder.

In this age, most of the news that comes across the telegraph wires is drab with the world's modern, even-tempered life and its progress in that direction. But occasionally from some far-off corner of the globe there comes a flashing bit of color full of the thrills of romance and buried deep in the background of the world's remote and interesting past.

Such is the news from the British outposts in the Khyber hill country today. It is equally as colorful and as interesting as a Kipling novel and it gives us an added thrill when we realize that we are reading fact instead of fiction.

He Took No Chance, But

He brushed his teeth twice a day—with a nationally advertised toothpaste.

The doctor examined him twice a year.

He wore his rubbers when it rained.

He slept with the windows open. He stuck to a diet with plenty of fresh vegetables.

He relinquished his tonsils and traded in several worn-out glands.

He played golf—but never more than 18 holes at a time.

He got at least eight hours' sleep.

He never smoked, drank or lost his temper.

He did his daily dozen daily. He was all set to live to be a hundred.

The funeral will be held next Wednesday. He is survived by eighteen specialists, four health institutes, six gymnasiums and numerous manufacturers of health foods and antiseptics.

He had forgotten about trains at grade crossings.

A FOOLISH IDEA

The average motorist has long been of the opinion that the woman driver is not as capable, as cool or as careful as the man. But figures are being given out, the result of a recent nation-wide survey made by Auto Clubs, to dispute this belief. The report shows that women drivers are involved in only 6 per cent of auto accidents. Since only one in every four drivers is a woman, that means she is entitled to figure in 25 accidents out of every 100. That she figures in but 6 out of every 100 shows that she drives, if not with more skill, then with more care than the average man. But her critics will contend that she causes many accidents that she doesn't get hurt in, but in which someone else is hurt. And right there is where we are going to side-step the argument. We haven't any figures to disprove that statement, and on the face of it there may be a lot of truth in it. So, since we have troubles enough of our own already, we'll let someone else continue the argument.

Thieves Active in City During Past Week-end

Thieves were active in Canyon during the past week-end when they took one car and entered one house stealing a pair of trousers and taking only money from the pockets.

A Ford sedan belonging to Wilford Jones, of Lockney a student in college here, was stolen Friday night. Jones had his car parked in the driveway at his place of residence at 400 12th and during the night it was stolen.

Saturday night or early Sunday morning thieves entered the Oscar Gamble home by cutting the screen and lifting the latch on the back screen door. Mr. Gamble's trousers which contained his purse and keys to both his car and the Canyon Supply store were removed from the house and left hanging in a tree in the yard. Nothing was missed except the purse which contained a few valuable papers and approximately $15.00 in currency.

The purse was later found with only the money missing.

Large Crowd Sees Returns Tabulated

Until they were dispersed by the welcome rain about nine o'clock Saturday night, several hundred Randall county people gathered in front of the News office to receive the returns of the election as fast as they were tabulated.

Although a record vote was cast in the county the complete returns of Randall county were in the hands of the News force by 8:20 Saturday night. The first returns by wire from the Texas Election bureau were received about 7:45 and continued until near eleven o'clock when it was certain as to the outcome of all the state races.

Later bulletins were posted Sunday morning.

Will It Work?

In the matter of mergers, there seems to be nothing new under the sun. Here comes two Tennessee counties with a plan to consolidate and have one instead of two court houses and one instead of two sets of county officials. It is argued that the automobile now makes it possible to get to a county seat from a far greater distance than in horse-and-buggy days, and for that reason counties might as well be two, or three, or even four times as large as where originally laid out. Consolidating two or more would reduce expenses to taxpayers, and yet county business could be transacted as speedily and capably as before. To the average taxpayer this plan will doubtless have considerable appeal, as anything is sure to that hints at reducing taxes. But don't get the idea that county-merging is going to become a craze. It would, in the first place, abolish a lot of political jobs, and when you start in doing that you've got a young war on your hands.

Help Keep Canyon Clean.

FRAUDS—
The Federal Government has begun an active campaign against false, fraudulent and misleading advertising. The Federal Trade Commission has announced a policy of holding newspapers and magazines responsible equally with the advertisers.

One result has been the cleaning up of the advertising columns of the less responsible publications in the past few months. Another result has been to send advertising frauds, especially medical quacks, into radio broadcasting.

Sooner or later broadcasting will have to be regulated, too.

CIGARETTES—

The prejudice against cigarettes seems to have practically disappeared. The report of the Bureau of Internal Revenue for the year which ended on June 30th last, shows the largest consumption of cigarettes in history, nearly one hundred and twenty billion of them having been sold during the year. That is an average of 1,000 cigarettes a year for every man, woman and child in the United States!

The idea that cigarette smoking is more injurious to health than the use of tobacco in other forms is still held in some quarters, but medical men generally do not take it very seriously.

Cigarette smoking by women is now commonplace, though until the war there was only one restaurant in New York that permitted women to smoke within its walls.

POLITICS—

After all the sound and fury over the ratification of the Naval Reduction treaty, just nine Senators voted against it.

By the noise they made, and the amount of space which the newspapers gave to the opponents of the treaty, most people were expecting, if not defeat of the treaty, at least a very close vote. In Washington everybody knew better. There never was any doubt that the treaty would be ratified. All the uproar was merely personal and partisan politics.

The trouble with two-thirds of the so-called "news" that comes out of Washington is that it is misleading. It gives the impression that little men are big men, that their words are intended to be taken seriously.

HOMES—

Home building is on the increase, according to the Home Owners Institute of America. Regions where there has been no shortage of housing facilities are now beginning to feel a demand for new homes.

This is a particularly favorable time in which to build a house, the Institute states. Building materials are lower than at any time since 1922, and financing companies, savings banks and other money-lending institutions are making more liberal loans for home building, and on easier terms.

Practically every new home is built with borrowed money. Most people hold that it is better to have a "permanent" mortgage on one's home than to own it free and clear. In most communities it is easier to sell property with a mortgage on it than otherwise, and there is less of the home-owner's individual capital tied up in a house which cannot be turned into cash in an emergency.

CREDIT—

A few years ago the principal grocer in the suburban town where I was living began to raise his prices. After a few months my family found it so much cheaper to go across the railroad to the "cash and carry" store that they transferred all their trade there. Our old grocer stopped me on the street one day and asked whether he had failed to give satisfaction. I told him I was satisfied with everything but his prices.

He explained that so many rich people had moved into the suburb that he had to charge more, because, as he explained, the rich took so long to pay their bills! My next door neighbor, reputed a millionaire, had not settled his grocery bill for three years. Instead of refusing to sell him, the grocer was so afraid of losing the "millionaire trade" that he tried to make me, and others like me, who bought for cash, pay interest on the debts of the wealthy.

I was reminded of this by seeing a report of the Department of Commerce on retail store failures, in which it is stated that the principal cause is the extension of credit. It seems incredible that there are people who do not pay for the food they eat, but apparently there are a good many of them.

Today's worst pun: The Chinese may be up in arms, but they do manage to keep coolies.

Will It Work?

In the matter of mergers, there seems to be nothing new under the sun. Here comes two Tennessee counties with a plan to consolidate and have one instead of two court houses and one instead of two sets of county officials. It is argued that the automobile now makes it possible to get to a county seat from a far greater distance than in horse-and-buggy days, and for that reason counties might as well be two, or three, or even four times as large as where originally laid out. Consolidating two or more would reduce expenses to taxpayers, and yet county business could be transacted as speedily and capably as before. To the average taxpayer this plan will doubtless have considerable appeal, as anything is sure to that hints at reducing taxes. But don't get the idea that county-merging is going to become a craze. It would, in the first place, abolish a lot of political jobs, and when you start in doing that you've got a young war on your hands.

Help Keep Canyon Clean.

FRAUDS—
The Federal Government has begun an active campaign against false, fraudulent and misleading advertising. The Federal Trade Commission has announced a policy of holding newspapers and magazines responsible equally with the advertisers.

One result has been the cleaning up of the advertising columns of the less responsible publications in the past few months. Another result has been to send advertising frauds, especially medical quacks, into radio broadcasting. Sooner or later broadcasting will have to be regulated, too.

CIGARETTES—
The prejudice against cigarettes seems to have practically disappeared. The report of the Bureau of Internal Revenue for the year which ended on June 30th last, shows the largest consumption of cigarettes in history, nearly one hundred and twenty billion of them having been sold during the year. That is an average of 1,000 cigarettes a year for every man, woman and child in the United States!

The idea that cigarette smoking is more injurious to health than the use of tobacco in other forms is still held in some quarters, but medical men generally do not take it very seriously.

Cigarette smoking by women is now commonplace, though until the war there was only one restaurant in New York that permitted women to smoke within its walls.

POLITICS—
After all the sound and fury over the ratification of the Naval Reduction treaty, just nine Senators voted against it.

By the noise they made, and the amount of space which the newspapers gave to the opponents of the treaty, most people were expecting, if not defeat of the treaty, at least a very close vote. In Washington everybody knew better. There never was any doubt that the treaty would be ratified. All the uproar was merely personal and partisan politics.

The trouble with two-thirds of the so-called "news" that comes out of Washington is that it is misleading. It gives the impression that little men are big men, that their words are intended to be taken seriously.

HOMES—
Home building is on the increase, according to the Home Owners Institute of America. Regions where there has been no shortage of housing facilities are now beginning to feel a demand for new homes.

This is a particularly favorable time in which to build a house, the Institute states. Building materials are lower than at any time since 1922, and financing companies, savings banks and other money-lending institutions are making more liberal loans for home building, and on easier terms.

Practically every new home is built with borrowed money. Most people hold that it is better to have a "permanent" mortgage on one's home than to own it free and clear. In most communities it is easier to sell property with a mortgage on it than otherwise, and there is less of the home-owner's individual capital tied up in a house which cannot be turned into cash in an emergency.

A Fourth Or It's Ours
By Helen Welshimer

The poet who said "It takes a heap of livin' in a house to make it home," forgot to mention another requirement. It also takes some money.

Willard K. Denton, president of the Metropolitan League of Savings and Loan Association, is warning the young people of the land that they should not turn the house-in-which-they-live into the home-which-they-own, until they are ready to pay down at least 25 per cent of the cost in cash.

Nor should they buy a home whose cost is more than three times the sum of the family's annual income, he says.

The last statement is very easy to understand. No one should invest beyond his income. But the first is a little more puzzling. There are a great many families who own their homes, who might not have done so had they had to pay rent all the time that they were saving up for the one-fourth down investment.

They experienced the keen pride of ownership and were able to plant rose bushes and turnips and onions on their own ground so much earlier than if they had waited. Because they had bought they wanted to save and hasten the moment of full possession. Otherwise they might have taken the money out of the bank and bought a better car or a radio while waiting for the sum to reach the required point.

Or somebody else might have bought the house they wanted.

Perhaps the logical answer is that if the desire for a home is strong enough the couple won't let anything interfere with the saving policy, and if it isn't they wouldn't keep the house anyway.

We willingly agree that it would be much more satisfactory to walk into a house, knowing it was one-fourth yours, than just a fraction of a fourth.

A survey of the great volume of new books that make their appearance annually is apt to be a little bit discouraging. Many fine and notable books are produced; but a great deal of the most popular fiction is mere trash, unfit for consideration by an adult mind.

However, there is a brighter side to it. Elliott B. Macrae of the publishing house of E. P. Dutton & Co., points out that the classics also are selling hugely. The "Everyman's Library" editions of classics which his firm prints enjoys a sale of 1,000,000 a year; and Mr. Macrae remarks:

"New books are given at least 99 per cent of the publicity, of the advertising, of the sales promotion effort. Yet, in spite of all this we find that old Shakespeare and many of his friends so serenely along outselling 90 per cent of the new books year after year."

A New York book seller, he says, reports that the Everyman books most in demand are Shakespeare's "Tragedies," "David Copperfield," "Shakespeare's "Comedies," "Don Quixote," Dostoevsky's "The Idiot" and Plato's "Republic," in the order named. The general level of intelligence of the reading public isn't quite as low as the popular fiction might make one believe. There is still a big market for good stuff.

THE WEATHER AND US
By Helen Welshimer

Not so long ago there was a slogan in vogue called "Back to the farm." Today the situation has been reversed. Two hundred farmers at Wilmington, Ohio, rode into town the other day and asked the county commissioners to give them some work, so they could earn money with which to support their families. Rain was only a dim, cool memory to them. Their cattle and sheep were thirsty. The sun had baked their pastures, dried up their crops.

The county commissioners immediately started work on some roads in order to answer the request of the men.

Such a situation makes us realize how dependent we are on the elements. A man who owns land and cattle and horses is supposed to be established. But sometimes he meets a situation which he can't face.

The ancient statement that the weather is the only thing which everyone has in common with everyone else, certainly has proved in the prevailing condition. Weather affects our dispositions, our pleasures, our activities, even our financial condition.

There is nothing that we can do about it. As yet no instrument has been invented which will blow up a thunder shower for a hot afternoon in August, and Peatier June breezes about 7 o'clock on a wintry morning.

When we come up against a menacing weather condition such as the one which has prevailed this summer, we realize that wonderful as the inventions of man are, they are useless toys compared with the elements.

The range of human endeavor is almost microscopic when compared with the wide play of the wind and sun and seas.

Back at the beginning of creation a promise was made that summer and winter, seed time and harvest should not perish from the earth. Without rain harvest is impossible, nor can the soil be prepared for seeds.

However, we can do nothing specific when a dry sizzling spell grips the nation. There are hazards in everything, whether you are investing in the Wall Street market or watching corn dry up on an Illinois or Iowa farm. Life is pretty evenly divided in that respect.

TRUST MOTHER NATURE

"My husband is particularly liable to sea-sickness, captain," said the woman.

The skipper nodded. "I've heard of the complaint before, ma'am," he said.

"Could you tell him what to do in case of an attack?" asked the woman.

"Taint necessary, ma'am," replied the skipper. "He'll do it."—Montreal Star.

NO ANSWER
By Bruce Barton

The traffic light flashed red, and a big car stopped short. The car behind it brushed the front car's fender. Nothing of any importance. Just a bump.

Instantly, the driver of the first car was on the pavement. No one could bump him with impunity. He'd show the world.

I stopped to watch the performance, and the action of the other driver gave me a smile. Mild and innocent, he sat. He did not turn his head. He never said a word.

When the traffic light flashed green he stepped on the gas and moved away. His angry accuser had to climb back into his driver's seat, and before he could get going angry horns were blowing all around him.

He had had the satisfaction of his outburst, but the silent man won.

Years ago I received a very bitter letter. The writer was wrong in his facts and unjustified in his tone. I carried the letter around in my pocket. Several times I started to dictate a hot reply. Then I would think of something meaner and decided to wait and try again.

On the third morning I had an inspiration. "The most paralyzing answer I can send to this man is no answer at all," I said to myself. "What is he doing all this time? Looking eagerly in every mail to find my letter. Planning out in his mind the things he will say in reply. Mentally lashing me to the mast."

"And I am going to disappoint him. I'm going to leave him there, all bottled up, stewing in his own juice."

Peace came over me. I never thought of the man again.

It's not an original idea. John D. Rockefeller, in his younger days, was working away at his desk one afternoon when a man rushed into the office and began to denounce him in violent terms.

Mr. Rockefeller leaned back and listened as if to a story of fascinating interest. He did not utter a word.

Presently the man exhausted himself, and walked out, looking rather foolish. Mr. Rockefeller quietly picked up his pen and went on with his work.

There is a very wise old verse which reads: "The meek shall inherit the earth."

Is it true? Look around you. The meek do not make a spectacular showing. They lose many opportunities to announce their rights, and defend their honor, and show what tough fellows they are.

But they certainly do inherit.

IN the good old days a man who could carry his liquor without showing it was called a gentleman. Now he is called a bootlegger.—Louisville Times.

A HERO GOES WEST

Another good soldier has gone West. He has found his regiment and sits contentedly in some far land where barbed wire, gas, and bursting shells are no longer a tortured memory.

Old Cap or Captain, as he was called, was a wire-haired Griffon, who served with the French Red Cross, with distinction, during the World War. It was his task to find the wounded men who lay in the tangled barbed wire and shell holes. Old Cap never faltered. Through the flames, on where the gas clouds rolled, a mask over his nose and eyes he ran.

Somehow he knew that it was duty. There were men, his comrades in the army, who needed help. And always he came.

"Cap will find me," one soldier in his outfit would murmur to another. "Don't worry. He'll be along 'most any minute."

All through the weary years Cap performed his duty. If he was scared, nobody ever knew it. His bright eyes would listen carefully to orders and he would obey them faithfully.

Then the war ended. An American soldier brought the dog home. Something must have told his heart that war was over. That his services were no longer required along the barbed wire.

When he had been needed he had never hesitated to go. Now that he wasn't, he stayed away from all wire fences. Nothing could coax him near. He remembered the sharp, sudden hail . . . the blood . . . the moans . . . black nights with mad red fire. The other day he died at Ware, Mass., at the ripe age.

There is a lesson in the life of the soldier-dog who has passed through the western gates. He was never afraid to risk his life as long as he could be of service. But when he knew that he couldn't he calmly refused to take an unnecessary risk.

Some of the gay flirtations with death today might end more happily if we used the same dog sense.

THOMPSON HARDWARE CO.*THE WEATHER AND US

By Helen Welshimer

Not so long ago there was a slogan in vogue called "Back to the farm." Today the situation has been reversed. Two hundred farmers at Wilmington, Ohio, rode into town the other day and asked the county commissioners to give them some work, so they could earn money with which to support their families. Rain was only a dim, cool memory to them. Their cattle and sheep were thirsty. The sun had baked their pastures, dried up their crops.

The county commissioners immediately started work on some roads in order to answer the request of the men.

Such a situation makes us realize how dependent we are on the elements. A man who owns land and cattle and horses is supposed to be established. But sometimes he meets a situation which he can't face.

The ancient statement that the weather is the only thing which everyone has in common with everyone else, certainly has proved in the prevailing condition. Weather affects our dispositions, our pleasures, our activities, even our financial condition.

There is nothing that we can do about it. As yet no instrument has been invented which will blow up a thunder shower for a hot afternoon in August, and Peatler June breezes about 7 o'clock on a wintry morning.

When we come up against a menacing weather condition such as the one which has prevailed this summer, we realize that wonderful as the inventions of man are, they are useless toys compared with the elements.

The range of human endeavor is almost microscopic when compared with the wide play of the wind and sun and seas.

Back at the beginning of creation a promise was made that summer and winter, seed time and harvest should not perish from the earth. Without rain harvest is impossible, nor can the soil be prepared for seeds.

However, we can do nothing specific when a dry sizzling spell grips the nation. There are hazards in everything, whether you are investing in the Wall Street market or watching corn dry up on an Illinois or Iowa farm. Life is pretty evenly divided in that respect.

"My husband is particularly liable to sea-sickness, captain," said the woman.

NO ANSWER

By Bruce Barton

The traffic light flashed red, and a big car stopped short. The car behind it brushed the front car's fender. Nothing of any importance. Just a bump.

Instantly, the driver of the first car was on the pavement. No one could bump him with impunity. He'd show the world.

I stopped to watch the performance, and the action of the other driver gave me a smile. Mild and innocent, he sat. He did not turn his head. He never said a word.

When the traffic light flashed green he stepped on the gas and moved away. His angry accuser had to climb back into his driver's seat, and before he could get going angry horns were blowing all around him.

He had had the satisfaction of his outburst, but the silent man won.

Years ago I received a very bitter letter. The writer was wrong in his facts and unjustified in his tone.

I carried the letter around in my pocket. Several times I started to dictate a hot reply. Then I would think of something meaner and decided to wait and try again.

On the third morning I had an inspiration. "The most paralyzing answer I can send to this man is no answer at all," I said to myself. "What is he doing all this time? Looking eagerly in every mail to find my letter. Planning out in his mind the things he will say in reply. Mentally lashing me to the mast."

"And I am going to disappoint him. I'm going to leave him there, all bottled up, stewing in his own juice."

Peace came over me. I never thought of the man again.

It's not an original idea. John D. Rockefeller, in his younger days, was working away at his desk one afternoon when a man rushed into the office and began to denounce him in violent terms.

Mr. Rockefeller leaned back and listened as if to a story of fascinating interest. He did not utter a word.

Presently the man exhausted himself, and walked out, looking rather foolish. Mr. Rockefeller quietly picked up his pen and went on with his work.

There is a very wise old verse which reads: "The meek shall inherit the earth."

Is it true? Look around you. The meek do not make a spectacular showing. They lose many opportunities to announce their rights, and defend their honor, and show what tough fellows they are.

But they certainly do inherit.

A Dark Secret

By Munch

Rights
Drivers of motor vehicles should take warning that in damage suits brought by pedestrians struck while crossing the street at pedestrian crossings and on proper traffic signals, the courts invariably find against the motorist. Under these circumstances the pedestrian has a right-of-way the motorist cannot dispute with impunity.

Cases arise most frequently over disputes as to right of way when pedestrians who start on a correct signal are caught by a change in signal before they have reached the other curb. It is nothing more than common sense to say that they should be given time to clear the roadway before vehicular traffic moves forward. If the absolute right of pedestrians to enter upon a crossing when they have the "green" were not sustained they would be almost without protection. The courts have held that failure on the part of the driver to recognize the right of the pedestrian in such circumstances constitutes negligence which, in event of accident, is chargeable to him.

These inalienable rights of the pedestrian do not, however, warrant his proceeding on the "red," trespassing off his allotted crossings and loitering in traffic lanes. If the motorist must wait until the pedestrian lanes are clear, the man on foot ought to do as much for the motorist.

The World Loves a Child
"Under the spreading chestnut tree
The Village Smithy stands—"
But the smithy of the narrative holds forth in a modern, brick building, as complete for its purpose and as pleasing in its exterior as the most chic ladies' ready-to-wear. He's a Plains smithy of the modern era, instead of the earlier age New England type.

And he loves children. The world loves a child.

A small boy with his favorite toy, a caterpillar type tractor, follows his mother to the village smithy to get his decrepit toy repaired. The wheels have been pulled off, the light tin having been withstood only a few months wear at the bearings. The wheels are soldered on.

The delighted child tries to "show" his friend and the for-the-moment idol how his tractor will run. But it doesn't run. The smithy, a father himself, notices the disappointment registered on the sensitive face of the child.

"We'll make that tractor run if it takes all day to do it," the smithy reassures his little customer. Pliers come into play and the tin-can tractor is dismantled. Through a pried-up corner of the radiator bits of reed, balloon stem had been stuffed by the youthful owner.

Out they come and the tractors "works."

The same time on a set of plow points, a cotton sled, a lawn mower, or wrought iron railings would cost a plenty. It would be worth it. The boy pays "fifteen cents" for his repair job.

The mother listens with wrapt interest to the father's tale of his own son. In odd times a splendid wagon with a wooden bed had been made for him. He was extremely proud as he led the father at noon one day to the back yard to show him what he had done. "It took all morning to do it, but I finally got through," the boy said as the father surveyed the work of his son. A saw from the last Christmas tool chest was on the grass near the wagon bed, which had been completely sawed in two.

The world loves a child. It loves the young. That seems to be nature's way of protecting the species. A man will kill a large snake as speedily as possible after he sights it. The writer never saw one encounter a bunch of small, baby snakes without paying with them a little before he killed them. One will fondle a cub bear, a young coyote, but loses no time in killing the grown ones. A kid will knock a grown ground squirrel winding with the first thing that comes handy, and put the young ones in his cap or pocket.

Everyone likes to tell tales about the wise sayings and the cute acts of his own child. But everyone likes to listen.

A very practical trade has been made by the writer and another father with young children to the effect that when one starts telling about his children the other will patiently and quietly listen, without interruption. This holds true wherever the meeting occurs. It affords a convenient and a sympathetic outlet for paternal narratives.

The world loves a child and this recently organized twoman mutual could well extend its membership.

WHAT HERMITS MISS

By Helen Welshimer

There are some things that are beyond human understanding. How a healthy, normal man could seclude himself on a tiny island for 22 years is one of them.

Most of us have an urge, now and then, to escape from our cares. To go adventuring, gathering the rag-tag ends of romance, and stretching our souls. But we do it merely because we need a tonic to strengthen our exhilaration for the tasks and the human contacts that make our lives. Life goes stale if it doesn't give us a problem or two to solve.

But now comes the story of Charles Hardenberg, who is living a hermit's life on Little Watts Island, no larger than an average city lot, in Chesapeake Bay. He grew tired of the world, so he ran away.

He had been a successful lawyer, owner of one of the largest libraries in New Jersey. But he didn't take a single book with him. He seldom reads a newspaper. He has all the time in the world, but he never troubles to make a garden. He doesn't live. He exists.

Across the bay the world has changed since he left it. Tall buildings have gone skyward. Automobiles have gained speed. Airships have winged their way close to the stars, and men have gone down to the sea in ships in more than one war.

Hardenberg has heard the faint ring of steel, the echo of martial music, and let them drift past his island home.

Hardenberg is bored. Small wonder, we would say. There is no one to whom he can boast if he catches a 10-pound fish. Therefore, he doesn't care what he pulls in. He isn't affected by the proposed two-and-one-half-cent postage rate. He doesn't care who is up and who is down in the Wall Street game of see-saw.

He has no inducement to see how long he can sit in a tree, for nobody would know it, anyway. He probably doesn't know that Lindbergh has a son.

The light of the stars and the songs of the wind have lost their magic for him. He has seen them too unbrokenly without a background of appreciation. And he has seen them alone.

He needs championship, interests, a challenge to spur him on. Nearly every accomplishment in life has come because someone wanted to prove his worth to others.

We were meant to live in groups and work in groups. In nomadic days, when shepherds took their flocks to pastures where clear streams were flowing they joined caravans. Human contact made life worth while. It made the joy of accomplishment sweeter.

No wonder the hermit can find small pleasure in his lonely games of solitaire. It isn't fun to beat yourself.

It is a queer mind which imposes on itself a solitude which, with almost no other exception, would be considered a punishment.

A happy man doesn't run away from life. He stays on the job. He realizes that he is going to be the same wherever he is. Therefore he tries to cultivate a place of no trespassing in his heart where he may go for relaxation.

Most of us would bore ourselves too quickly, anyway, if we withdrew from the world. Hardenberg doesn't seem to be getting a great deal of enjoyment out of his experiment, either. Perhaps that is his trouble.

SAFER MOTHERHOOD

By Helen Welshimer

In these days of stock market crashes, drought, and unemployment, it is interesting to note that one or two things in the world are improving. The infant mortality rate is one of them. According to a report just issued by the American Child Health Association, there were 6.2 deaths among each thousand births during 1929.

Of course this number is far too large. Just one death is an extravagant gesture. But when we consider the fact that in spite of stock market crashes and drought and unemployment, the present rate ranks second to the lowest rate ever recorded for cities in the United States, we appreciate our national progress. In 1927, during days of greater prosperity, the recorded rate was 64.9.

Fifteen years the rate was near 100. Today it has fallen until it is only two-thirds of what it was just after the World War started.

We are appreciating, more and more, the sacrifice and cost which are involved in the creation of human life. As we grow more enlightened we are enacting laws for the promotion of the welfare and hygiene of maternity and infancy.

It is interesting to note that a great deal of the legislative work along this line has come about during the last ten years, since women have received the ballot. They are responsible to a large degree for the passage of the famous Sheppard-Towner Act which established a federal bureau to carry on maternity research work and disseminate helpful knowledge.

So long as we are pacing a high premium on life, endeavoring to save it, and succeeding in that endeavor, our progress is upward.

Other conditions will improve. They always have. If we keep the health of the nation sound and continue to cut down the infant mortality rate, which used to be such a dragon in our forest, we are proceeding up the mountain slope of achievement.

We are not there, by any matter of means. Sixty-six and a fraction deaths from every thousand is far too many. But we have the satisfaction of knowing that in spite of the economical bumps and bruises of the present day, we are all agreed that life is distinctly worth saving.

THE filling-stations still lead, but the Tom Thumb golf courses are gaining on them.—American Lumberman.

My friend old Farmer Hogfissel, said he would have exhibited a bucket of grain at the show on Trades Day but the crop of wild oats his son sowed last year didn't turn out so well.

I read a statement in the papers a few days ago that said lipstick was made from the bodies of bugs and insects. I suspected such the first time I got a good taste of it back in my courting days and since then I have been an arch-enemy to lipstick.

Well, thank heavens politics is over, for a while at least, I hope I could say a lot about the election today but I think I'll refrain. I won't say much and you may bet I won't talk about the governor's race. Too much has been said already. (Jim, "Ma's" husband, however, wishes he had said more.)

In my opinion (which the Madam declares don't amount to much if she happens to disagree with me) we now have nominated one of the best men ever nominated to the office of lieutenant governor. Edgar Witt of Waco is a man who has the ability to capably handle the affairs of the office, rendering a service of high character.

Next time an election comes off around here I am going to spend all my time working for a lieutenant governor for he is one of two men I voted for in the first primary that survived the run-off.

I was rather amused at the remarks of Clint Small's secretary of the first primary, who was in Canyon last week in interest of Senator Witt's campaign. I asked the man why he was here and he said, "I am now trying to elect an honest to goodness lieutenant governor, as I failed to elect the governor in the first time around."

Ain't it so brother.

Now that the election is all over let's bury the hatchets and pull together for the upbuilding of the state and county.

Texas and Randall county have official families who are capable of carrying on the work of the state and county through the offices to which they have been nominated and to which they will be elected in November. They will need the unified support of the citizenry to accomplish the worthwhile things for the best interests of the state as a whole.

I walked into the back of the shop Monday morning and I found the office devil crying to beat sixty. I inquired into the cause of the tears and he replied, "I want our 'Ma' and they went and beat her. I'm still an orphan."

Now that the election is over and all the golf championship matches have been played I find little of interest to write about. Of course there is enough stuff of what and how things could have been changed to cause different results in the recent elections to keep this type-writer on the hum for weeks and weeks. For instance why didn't certain Panhandle people work for Small like they did for Sterling? But what of it the battles have all been fought.

Everything is all in a flutter around here this week. Susie has bought a new fortune telling book and not only knows her fortune, but the fortune of everyone around the shop. Well, I can tell you what mine is very quick and easy. It is $1.15 if the Madam hasn't overdrawn at the bank.

J. J. Walker has decided that all the honest people are not dead. To his utmost surprise last week he opened a letter, which came to him through the mail and it contained $2.50 cash and a little note attached to same for the payment of a debt some eight or ten years standing.

Football is coming along right away and maybe I can interest you with my views, if they be such in regard to that subject.

CORPUS CHRISTI LADY GLAD TO PRAISE KONJOLA

Old Resident Eager to Tell What New Medicine Did for Her After Others Failed

MRS. H. L. DRYER

"I was badly run down and even the simplest foods brought on attacks of indigestion," said Mrs. H. L. Dryer, for more than fifty years a resident of Corpus Christi, Texas, residing at 1337 Ocean Drive in that city. I bloated terribly after meals and suffered severe belching spells. Constipation was a source of constant worry and I had severe pains in my abdomen after meals. I was unable to sleep at night.

"I have taken Konjola but a week and I can say that every ache and pain in my stomach is gone. I can now rest well at night and eat what I wish without any of my former miseries. I have never used a medicine like Konjola and although I am 68 years of age I can do plenty of work. I am more than glad to pass my praise for this medicine on to others."

This is not an exceptional case. Konjola does work quickly and none the less thoroughly. It is best in most cases to continue the treatment over a period of from six to eight weeks.

Konjola is sold in Canyon, Texas, at Jarrett's Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says: "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c to-day at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. City Pharmacy.

THE WEAKY

My friend old Farmer Hogfissel, said he would have exhibited a bucket of grain at the show on Trades Day but the crop of wild oats his son sowed last year didn't turn out so well.

I read a statement in the papers a few days ago that said lipstick was made from the bodies of bugs and insects. I suspected such the first time I got a good taste of it back in my courting days and since then I have been an arch-enemy to lipstick.

Well, thank heavens politics is over, for a while at least, I hope I could say a lot about the election today but I think I'll refrain. I won't say much and you may bet I won't talk about the governor's race. Too much has been said already. (Jim, "Ma's" husband, however, wishes he had said more.)

In my opinion (which the Madam declares don't amount to much if she happens to disagree with me) we now have nominated one of the best men ever nominated to the office of lieutenant governor. Edgar Witt of Waco is a man who has the ability to capably handle the affairs of the office, rendering a service of high character.

Next time an election comes off around here I am going to spend all my time working for a lieutenant governor for he is one of two men I voted for in the first primary that survived the run-off.

I was rather amused at the remarks of Clint Small's secretary of the first primary, who was in Canyon last week in interest of Senator Witt's campaign. I asked the man why he was here and he said, "I am now trying to elect an honest to goodness lieutenant governor, as I failed to elect the governor in the first time around."

Ain't it so brother.

Now that the election is all over let's bury the hatchets and pull together for the upbuilding of the state and county.

Texas and Randall county have official families who are capable of carrying on the work of the state and county through the offices to which they have been nominated and to which they will be elected in November. They will need the unified support of the citizenry to accomplish the worthwhile things for the best interests of the state as a whole.

I walked into the back of the shop Monday morning and I found the office devil crying to beat sixty. I inquired into the cause of the tears and he replied, "I want our 'Ma' and they went and beat her. I'm still an orphan."

Now that the election is over and all the golf championship matches have been played I find little of interest to write about. Of course there is enough stuff of what and how things could have been changed to cause different results in the recent elections to keep this type-writer on the hum for weeks and weeks. For instance why didn't certain Panhandle people work for Small like they did for Sterling? But what of it the battles have all been fought.

Everything is all in a flutter around here this week. Susie has bought a new fortune telling book and not only knows her fortune, but the fortune of everyone around the shop. Well, I can tell you what mine is very quick and easy. It is $1.15 if the Madam hasn't overdrawn at the bank.

J. J. Walker has decided that all the honest people are not dead. To his utmost surprise last week he opened a letter, which came to him through the mail and it contained $2.50 cash and a little note attached to same for the payment of a debt some eight or ten years standing.

Football is coming along right away and maybe I can interest you with my views, if they be such in regard to that subject.

CORPUS CHRISTI LADY GLAD TO PRAISE KONJOLA

Old Resident Eager to Tell What New Medicine Did for Her After Others Failed

MBRS. H. L. DRYER

"I was badly run down and even the simplest foods brought on attacks of indigestion," said Mrs. H. L. Dryer, for more than fifty years a resident of Corpus Christi, Texas, residing at 1337 Ocean Drive in that city. I bloated terribly after meals and suffered severe belching spells. Constipation was a source of constant worry and I had severe pains in my abdomen after meals. I was unable to sleep at night.

"I have taken Konjola but a week and I can say that every ache and pain in my stomach is gone. I can now rest well at night and eat what I wish without any of my former miseries. I have never used a medicine like Konjola and although I am 68 years of age I can do plenty of work. I am more than glad to pass my praise for this medicine on to others."

This is not an exceptional case. Konjola does work quickly and none the less thoroughly. It is best in most cases to continue the treatment over a period of from six to eight weeks.

Konjola is sold in Canyon, Texas, at Jarrett's Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

of Ellis county won the race for Commissioner of Agriculture and Pat M. Neff, former governor of Texas was nominated Railroad Commissioner.

Interest in the election ran high in Randall county and the result was the casting of a record vote. There were three run-off races for county offices and one precinct.

S. B. Orton defeated Worth A. Jennings for County Judge by a majority of 227 votes; J. D. Baker won over Flannigan Smith present incumbent for the County Attorney's office by 384 votes and Burney Slack was nominated Tax Assessor by 51 votes majority over J. L. Prichard in the closest race in the county. Dave Covington won over W. T. Hazlewood for Commissioner of Precinct No. 1 by a majority of 86 votes.

It is interesting to note the variation of the totals in the different races. Numbers of Randall county voters scratched both candidates in the primary Saturday. The Tax Assessor's race which proved to be the closest race drew the most votes with 1,969 votes being cast, while only 1,708 votes were cast for the Commissioner of Agriculture.

The following is the standing of the state races according to the latest tabulations of the Texas Election Bureau:

Governor, Ross S. Sterling, 468,760; Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, 373,709.

Lieutenant Governor, Edgar Witt, 420,374; Sterling P. Strong, 355,992.

Attorney General, James V. Allred, 461,986; Robert Lee Bobbitt, 334,417.

State Treasurer, Charley Lockhart, 409,972; John E. Davis, 351,533.

Commissioner of Agriculture, J. E. McDonald, 434,692; A. H. King, 304,882.

Railroad Commissioner, Pat M. Neff, 448,508; W. Gregory Hatcher, 327,824.

Old Cowboys

in connection with the gathering of the association.

Following the barbecue at noon a short impromptu program was given, started off by Judge L. Gough, past president, and presided over by Miss Hamner. H. B. Martin and W. W. Lynch, both of Amarillo, made short talks, followed by A. B. Melton, Mobeetie, an 1885 Diamond Trail man, who sang the old cowboy ditties to the vast delight of the crowd. Miss Hamner then called for some yells, and the air resounded with the yips and hulloos of times past. Sam R. Sayers of Fort Worth delivered a short address redolent of praises of the work of the pioneers of West Texas, and Doc Howard of Clarendon spoke briefly and sang a few songs of his own.

One of the proudest and happiest members on the grounds was Matthew Hooks, better known as "Bones," colored, who has a record of starting in the bronc busting business when about 11 years of age, and who says he "forked 'em" for every outfit between Central Texas up into New Mexico first and last.

Among the prominent members of the association present, together with their present address, brand and when they started in the cow business were:

John C. Isaacs, Canadian, T-Ancor, 1882; S. K. Bynum, Lubbock, Quarter Circle, in Kent county, 1881; W. H. Ingerton, Dumas, GMS, Randall county, 1879; L. E. Lynch, Stratford, T-Ancor, 1891; S. R. Bull, Dalhart, "2", Donley county, 1879; J. L. Stroope, Pampa, LX, Potter county, 1881; R. W. Baird, Hereford, T-Ancor, 1886; J. W. Bradley, Hereford, T-Ancor, 1887; George Ely, Denver, L. Potter county, 1885; E. F. True, Amarillo, LX, Potter county, 1879; George Abbott, Dimmitt, "Supr." Dickens county, 1889; J. C. Jenkins, Canyon, T-Ancor, 1885; N. E. Hord, Amarillo, TH, New Mexico, 1879; R. E. Baird, Canyon, T-Ancor, 1883; John Arnot, Amarillo, LX, Potter county, 1884; W. S. ## OCEAN-CROSSING DIRIGIBLES

Did you notice how much less public interest there was in the recent trans-Atlantic trip of the British dirigible R-100 than there was in the earlier voyages of Germany's Graf Zeppelin? The heroic adventure of the Britishers was fully equal to that of the Germans, but the public didn't acclaim it as such.

All this may be lamentable from the standpoint of British pride, but it is an encouraging sign to those who view the future of aviation.

For it denotes clearly that trans-Atlantic air voyages are becoming quite commonplace, and it heralds the approach of a day when such will no longer be regarded as a rash adventure, but as a definite, systemized means of commercial transportation—as much as that of steamships that now ply the ocean's waves.

The adventure of today becomes the ordinary, routine duty of tomorrow. The air pioneers lead the way in the skies, just as Columbus pioneered the way on the oceans. The fact that their daring feats soon sink to the commonplace is visible proof of the fact that their aims are fast approaching the stage of efficiency.

Such are the stepping stones of progress, and so they have been since history began.

Motor Car Tags
Will Have New
Styles in 1931

Austin, Tex., (UP).—Texas motorists will carry neat black plates on their automobiles next year with white letters and numbers.

There are two noticeable changes in the "tags" for 1931. They will not be marked "front" and "rear" like the present tags. A front and rear tag are required, but they are made just the same, making a saving to the state of $7,000.

Another change has been made which is expected to make the numbers more easily read. As the Texas numbers now run into the millions, it has been decided to use letters for hundred thousands.

A tag that would read 142101 under the old system will be A4-2101. The highway department claims it is easier to read and remember that way. It will be a memory-breaker, however, for many motorists who have been arranging to get the same number each year. Many motorists did so by making arrangements with the county clerk. They left him a check for the license fee. When the number they wished was reached, the clerk would set it aside for them. This year all numbers will be different.

The old practice of retaining low numbers for "administration" has been continued. State Highway Engineer Gibb Gilchrist insists that motor cops will be just as diligent to catch a speeder with an "administration" number as with any other number—that it confers no privileges. There will be 300 of these.

The others are assigned to counties. Anderson County will be assigned numbers from 301 to 5500; Bexar County is the first to get a combination letter and number tags. They get tags from 5-1301 to A1-3300. Dallas County will have tags from B7-4501 to C5-0500. Harris County is assigned the most numbers. They will be from E7-5901 to F5-9900. Tarrant County cars will bear tags from L3-4901 to L8-5900.

Commercial vehicle tags will have numbers only.

Prizes Awarded in Grain Show Monday

One prize offered in the small grain show on Trades Day went begging when only two exhibits of oats were entered. A total of eleven entries were made in competition for the nine cash prizes offered by the Chamber of Commerce.

Winning exhibitors are as follows:

Wheat
1. J. T. McGehee $3.00
2. W. A. Fegal 1.00
Barley
1. Fred Fegal $3.00
2. T. H. Dowlen 2.00
3. J. I. Ballangee 1.00
Oats
1. J. I. Ballangee $3.00
2. Rhea Robbins 2.00

The large crowds present in Canyon on Trades Day was somewhat smaller than usual Monday, which was partly attributed to the rains of the week-end and to the fact that the majority of the people in the county had been to Canyon or nearby towns on election day.

Payne Case Before
Grand Jury in Potter

The grand jury in Potter county has been hearing witnesses since Monday morning on the charge filed against A. D. Payne for the murder of his wife on June 27th. A large number of witnesses have been called before the grand jury, and testimony is being taken by that body.

It is stated that an indictment will very likely be returned against Payne today or tomorrow.

A. D. Payne, Amarillo attorney and former school superintendent in Canyon, was charged with the murder of his wife, and has made a very extended confession to the court officials.

District Court
Finishes Work
of Summer Term

The outstanding feature of the closing days for the summer term of the District Court was the trial of J. W. Howell. Howell was previously indicted upon a charge of theft by the Grand Jury. It was alleged that he had stolen a saddle.

The case went to trial at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon and went to the jury at 9:30 that night. The jury men were dismissed Friday at 6 p. m., after they had failed to agree upon a verdict. The case was continued for trial until the next term of court.

The case of Ethylene LeRoy Little vs. F. A. Shirk was continued until the next term of court. W. C. Black was dismissed as a receiver of the case of J. M. Kuehn vs. Herman Kuehn. Two other cases were dismissed.

The Court refused a motion of the defendant to set aside the judgement in the case of L. T. Lester vs. D. N. Redburn. Notice of appeal to the Court of Civil Appeals 7th Supreme Judicial District has been filed by the defendant.

Another inditement bringing the total for this term to 15, was returned by the Grand Jury Friday.

Male guests at a Turkish wedding are no longer privileged to beat the bridegroom, as was the former custom. That pleasure is now reserved for the bride.

Motor Car Tags Will Have New Styles in 1931

Austin, Tex., (UP).—Texas motorists will carry neat black plates on their automobiles next year with white letters and numbers.

There are two noticeable changes in the "tags" for 1931. They will not be marked "front" and "rear" like the present tags. A front and rear tag are required, but they are made just the same, making a saving to the state of $7,000.

Another change has been made which is expected to make the numbers more easily read. As the Texas numbers now run into the million, it has been decided to use letters for hundred thousands.

A tag that would read 142101 under the old system will be A4-2101. The highway department claims it is easier to read and remember that way. It will be a memory-breaker, however, for many motorists who have been arranging to get the same number each year. Many motorists did so by making arrangements with the county clerk. They left him a check for the license fee. When the number they wished was reached, the clerk would set it aside for them. This year all numbers will be different.

The old practice of retaining low numbers for "administration" has been continued. State Highway Engineer Gibb Gilchrist insists that motor cops will be just as diligent to catch a speeder with an "administration" number as with any other number—that it confers no privileges. There will be 300 of these.

The others are assigned to counties. Anderson County will be assigned numbers from 301 to 5500; Bexar County is the first to get a combination letter and number tags. They get tags from 5-1301 to A1-3300. Dallas County will have tags from B7-4501 to C5-0500. Harris County is assigned the most numbers. They will be from E7-5901 to F5-9900. Tarrant County cars will bear tags from L3-4901 to L8-5900.

Commercial vehicle tags will have numbers only.

District Court Finishes Work of Summer Term

The outstanding feature of the closing days for the summer term of the District Court was the trial of J. W. Howell. Howell was previously indicted upon a charge of theft by the Grand Jury. It was alleged that he had stolen a saddle.

The case went to trial at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon and went to the jury at 9:30 that night. The jury men were dismissed Friday at 6 p. m., after they had failed to agree upon a verdict. The case was continued for trial until the next term of court.

The case of Ethylene LeRoy Little vs. F. A. Shirk was continued until the next term of court. W. C. Black was dismissed as a receiver of the case of J. M. Kuehn vs. Herman Kuehn. Two other cases were dismissed.

The Court refused a motion of the defendant to set aside the judgement in the case of L. T. Lester vs. D. N. Redburn. Notice of appeal to the Court of Civil Appeals 7th Supreme Judicial District has been filed by the defendant.

Another indictment bringing the total for this term to 15, was returned by the Grand Jury Friday.
